New Years Resolutions and Chiropractic

Well it is that time of year again. Christmas has been and gone with the usual flurry and we are looking towards new years and starting to think about our new year's resolutions. Often these resolutions will revolve around diet or exercise or positive thinking; however, there is one crucial factor that is often overlooked and, that is, the nervous system.

After all no matter how well you eat if you have nerve interference that means you don't absorb or utilize the nutrients properly you are never going to get the full benefit. Similarly, it is one thing to be exercising perfectly but if nerve interference means that the muscles aren't developing in a balanced and coordinated manner then you are making it hard for yourself. If you work very hard on your thought processes but have poor spinal movement and neurological feedback, then it will be hard for your brain to distress. So whilst diet, exercise and positive thinking are great ideas for a new year's resolution perhaps it is worth getting a check up with a chiropractor to ensure your nervous system is functioning at its best and you are getting the full benefit.

Book an appointment today to have your nervous system check up with one of the three chiropractors at the Chiropractic Care and Longevity Center:

"The doctor of the future will give no medicine, but will interest her or his patients in the care of the human frame, in a proper diet, and in the cause and prevention of disease."

What to Expect From Your Personal Trainer

Personal trainers design customized one-on-one training programs and help motivate clients to exercise. They monitor fitness progress and are used by people who want to get in shape or stay in shape. Trainers can also be used for weight loss, rehabilitation post injury and for injury prevention. People of all ages can use a personal trainer. Trainers assess a client's fitness and goals to make recommendations on how to improve their fitness and which exercises are best. Personal trainers ensure that their clients are using proper form when exercising and often encourage them to perform a workout that would exceed what they would do alone.

Personal Trainer Job and Education Requirements

Educational backgrounds for personal trainers vary. The minimal requirements are usually that personal trainers need to have CPR, a high school diploma, be a minimum of 18 years-old, and have completed a personal trainer course. Courses cover subjects such as exercise physiology, biology, nutrition, and other related classes. Upon completion of the course, personal trainers must pass a certification examination.

About Hanna Murphy, Certified Fitness Trainer:

Hanna has been in the health field as a Chiropractic Assistant for seven years. She has a vast knowledge and interest in all areas of wellness. In 2007 Hanna, completed the Registered Nutritional Supplement Advisor course through the Alive Academy. She has been involved in strict training for the past 5 years playing and coaching competitive Roller Derby. In 2011 she completed her personal trainer's wellness course through ISSA (International Sports Services Association). She specializes in the training and nutritional aspects of the 8 Weeks to Wellness Program that the clinic offers. If you have any questions regarding any services provided by a personal trainer please ask the front desk staff to meet Hanna and to get a tour of our onsite gym.

For the month of January 2012 the Chiropractic Care and Longevity Center will be offering your first one on one personal fitness training session with Hanna Murphy, CFT free of charge. A value of $40.00 plus tax. Please ask front desk to book an appointment.

Pet Diaries – the Cat

Day 983 of my captivity...

My captors continue to taunt me with bizarre little dangling objects. They dine lavishly on fresh meat, while the other inmates and I are fed hash or some sort of dry nuggets. Although I make my contempt for the rations perfectly clear, I nevertheless must eat something in order to keep my strength up.

The only thing that keeps me going is my dream of escape. In an attempt to disgust them, I once again vomit on the carpet...

Today I decapitated a mouse and dropped its headless body at their feet. I had hoped this would strike fear into their hearts, since it clearly demonstrates what I am capable of. However, they merely made condescending comments about what a 'good little hunter' I am. The bastards.

There was some sort of assembly of their accomplices tonight. I was placed in solitary confinement for the duration of the event. However, I could hear noises and smell the food. I overheard that my confinement was due to the power of 'allergies'. I must learn what this means and how to use it to my advantage.

Today I was almost successful in an attempt to assassinate one of my tormentors by weaving around his feet as he was walking. I must try this again tomorrow – but at the top of the stairs.

I am convinced that the other prisoners here are flunkies and snitches. The dog receives special privileges. He is regularly released – and seems to be more than willing to return. He is obviously retarded.

The bird has got to be an informant ... I observe him communicating with the guards regularly. I am certain that he reports my every move. My captors have arranged protective custody for him in an elevated cell, so he is safe ... For now.

Children Are Quick

- TEACHER: Why are you late? STUDENT: Because Class started before I got here.
- TEACHER: John, why are you doing your math multiplication on the floor? JOHN: You told me to do it without using tables.
- TEACHER: Donald, what is the chemical formula for water? DONALD: H I J K L M N O.
- TEACHER: What are you talking about? DONALD: Yesterday you said it's H to O.
- TEACHER: Winnie, name one important thing we have today that we didn't have ten years ago. WINNIE: Me!
- TEACHER: Glen, why do you always get so dirty? GLEN: Well, I'm a lot closer to the ground than you are.
- TEACHER: Millie, give me a sentence starting with 'I' MILLIE: I is... TEACHER: No, Millie..... Always say, 'I am.' MILLIE: All right, 'I am the ninth letter of the alphabet.'
- TEACHER: George Washington not only chopped down his father's cherry tree, but also admitted it. Now, Louie, do you know why his father didn't punish him? LOUIS: Because George still had the axe in his hand.
- TEACHER: Now, Simon, tell me frankly, do you say prayers before eating? SIMON: No sir, I don't have to, my Mom is a good cook.
- TEACHER: Harold, what do you call a person who keeps on talking when people are no longer interested? HAROLD: A teacher.

How to Build a Healthy Immune System Naturally- Tess Thompson

Your immune system is engaged in a constant battle against invasions of foreign antigens or disease causing pathogens. Immune system health is all about reducing the susceptibility to disease. An unhealthy immune system leads to frequent illnesses.

Pharmaceuticals, especially antibiotics, tend to inflict damage to the immune system through their side effects and inherent toxicity.

Conventional medicine focuses on immediate relief and chooses the antibiotic alternative rather too frequently. The patient may show signs of immediate relief but long terms effects of antibiotics are worse than the benefit derived from them. A lot of minor ailments require a wait and watch policy and go away on their own. Homeopathy and immune building natural supplements provide long-lasting benefits. The main focus of alternative therapies has been to treat symptoms as body's responses for self-healing and on strengthening the immune system.

Immune system health is directly dependent upon what we eat, drink, breathe, and wear. The human body is programmed to cleanse toxins naturally but there is a set limit of how much toxins it can process successfully. The present day scenario of overwhelmingly huge amounts of toxins in the environment, in commercial foods as preservatives and in pharmaceuticals has in a way 'clogged' the natural cleansing nerve tracts in the body.

Whereas, environmental toxins can be averted only if concerted efforts are made on national levels for a greener world, it is within our capacity to maintain our own bodies if we really want to. Food and drugs form the major proportion of the toxins that we ingest on daily basis. The body's ability to fight disease is greatly affected by our dietary habits. The right choice of food can boost your immune system to enable you to combat bacteria efficiently. Fast and processed foods are completely lacking in nutrients.

Fats and refined foods harm the immune system too. White flour, white sugar, white rice, white potatoes, white salt are all refined and should only be eaten occasionally. Sugar, especially refined sugar, is one of the biggest villains. One spoon of refined sugar can halt the immune system responses for six hours.

Also remember... The nervous system and immune system are hardwired and work together to create optimal responses for the body to adapt and heal appropriately. Neural dysfunctions due to spinal misalignments are stressful to the body and cause abnormal changes that lead to a poorly coordinated immune response. Chiropractic adjustments have been shown to boost the coordinated responses of the nervous system and immune system.

So make sure that you experience the benefits of monthly chiropractic.

Healthy New Year's Resolutions

New Year's resolutions are a bit like babies: They're fun to make but extremely difficult to maintain. Each January, roughly one in three North Americans resolve to better themselves or their situation in some way, according to a 2009 poll by the Marist College Institute for Public Opinion. A much smaller percentage of people actually make good on those resolutions, however. While roughly 75% of people stick to their goals for at least a week, less than half (46%) are still on target six months later, a 2002 study found. This year pick one of the following and stick to it:

Lose weight:

The fact that weight loss is perennially among the most popular resolutions suggests just how difficult it is to stick with. But you can succeed if you don't expect overnight success. Beware of the valley of quickie cures. Also, plan for bumps in the road. Use a food journal to keep track of what you eat and have a support system in place. Ask the staff at the Chiropractic Care and Longevity Center to help ask for information on our 8 Weeks to Wellness Program.

Stay in touch

Feel like old friends (or family) have fallen by the wayside? It's good for your health to reconnect with them. Research suggests people with strong social ties live longer than those who don't. In fact, a lack of social bonds can damage your health as much as alcohol abuse and smoking, and even more than obesity and lack of exercise, a 2010 study in the journal PLoS Medicine suggests. In a technology-fixated era, it's never been easier to stay in touch-or rejuvenate your relationship-with friends and family, so fire up Facebook and follow up with in-person visits.

Quit smoking

Talk to any ex-smoker, and you'll see that multiple attempts are often the path to success. Try different methods to find out what works. And think of the cash you'll save! (We know you know the ginormous health benefit.)

Save money

Save money by making healthy lifestyle changes. Walk or ride your bike to work, or explore carpooling. (That means more money in your pocket and less air pollution.) Cut back on gym membership costs by exercising at home. Many fitness programs on videogame systems like Nintendo's Wii and Microsoft's Xbox Kinect can get you sweating.

Cut your stress

A little pressure now and again won't kill us; in fact, short bouts of stress give us an energy boost. But if stress is chronic, it can increase your risk of-or worsen-insomnia, depression, obesity, heart disease, and more. Long work hours, little sleep, no exercise, poor diet, and not spending time with family and friends can contribute to stress, says Roberta Lee, MD, an integrative medicine specialist at Beth Israel Medical Center, in New York City, and the author of The Super Stress Solution. "Stress is an inevitable part of life," she says. "Relaxation, sleep, socializing, and taking vacations are all things we tell ourselves we deserve but don't allow ourselves to have."

Volunteer

We tend to think that we can make ourselves happy by doing things for ourselves, but we are happier when we are doing things for others, like through volunteer work, says Peter Kanaris, PhD, coordinator of public education for the New York State Psychological Association. Happiness is good for your health. A 2010 study in the European Heart Journal found that people with positive emotions and an upbeat attitude were about 20% less likely than their gloomier peers to have a heart attack or develop heart disease. Other research suggests that positive emotions can make people more resilient and resourceful. "Someone who makes this sort of resolution is likely to obtain a tremendous personal benefit in the happiness department," Kanaris says.

Get more sleep

You probably already know that a good night's rest can do wonders for your mood-and appearance. But sleep is more beneficial to your health than you might realize. A lack of sleep has been linked to a greater risk of obesity and type 2 diabetes. And sleep is crucial for strengthening memories (a process called consolidation). So take a nap-and don't feel guilty about it.

Cut back on alcohol

While much has been written about the health benefits of a small amount of alcohol, too much is still the bigger problem. (Binge drinking seems to be on the rise, in fact.) Drinking alcohol in excess affects the brain's neurotransmitters and can increase the risk of depression, memory loss, or even seizures. Chronic heavy drinking boosts your risk of liver and heart disease, hypertension, stroke, and mental deterioration, and even cancers of the mouth, throat, liver, and breast.

Travel

The joys and rewards of vacations can last long after the suitcase is put away. "We can often get stuck in a rut, and we can't get out of our own way," Kanaris says. "Everything becomes familiar and too routine." But traveling allows us to tap into life as an adventure, and we can make changes in our lives without having to do anything too bold or dramatic. "It makes you feel rejuvenated and replenished," Kanaris adds. "It gets you out of your typical scenery, and the effects are revitalizing. It's another form of new discovery and learning, and great for the body and the soul."
